

Web Communications Internship

Sustainable Long Island's Communications Department is accepting applications for an intelligent, eager and resourceful student to specialize in web communications this summer. The department's work focuses on communications with the public and target audiences through outreach, media relations, publications, etc. The intern's general duties will include developing new strategies to advance social networking, updating our website, www.sustainableli.org, and research other avenues of internet communications.

Required qualifications include:

- Excellent organizational and communication skills.
- Excellent writing and editing skills.
- Experience with Macromedia Contribute helpful but not necessary.
- Excellent web research skills.
- Proficient with Facebook; LinkedIn; Twitter; Karma 411; other social networking sites.
- A flexible, independent, work style.
- An interest in sustainability issues, Long Island's future, and/or communications work for a non-profit organization.

The internship will begin immediately and will continue through late-August. Letters of recommendation and documentation of internship completion can be provided, as well as course credit with participating schools.

To apply, please send a cover letter and resume to stuttle@sustainableli.org no later than April 30, 2009 with the subject heading WEB COMMUNICATIONS INTERN.